ABSTRACT

A device registration system for registering a terminal device for obtaining and using contents in a server that stores contents. The server stores a contents list indicating contents

5   stored and a registration list for registering specific information to the terminal device. The server receives the specific information and transmits the contents list to the terminal device. The terminal device receives a selection of a content from the contents list according to input by a user

10   and requests the server to transmit the selected content. When the specific information to the terminal device of the request source is not registered in the registration list, the server performs a registration process and transmits the requested content to the terminal device.

15